TROUBLE WITH SECESSION WOMEN.—Our commanders at every point in the South find the women the most difficult subjects they have to deal with. Casting aside the natural delicacy and refinement that belong to their sex, they delight in the most unwomanly, impudent and vulgar exhibition of anger and detestation toward the Federal troops. Nothing but severe measures will induce them to treat our officers and men with decent respect. A Baton Rouge letter to the Philadelphia Press says:

Brigadier General Williams occupies the house of General Taylor, which the latter resided in when in command of the U. S. forces some years ago. General Williams is greatly annoyed by visitors, particularly ladies. The latter are almost uncontrolable. They make all sorts of requests and when refused, are very insolent. A lady and her husband visited him yesterday. The lady desired to obtain a pass to leave the city, which was refused, when she sprang up, exclaiming, 'I knew it, and did not expect anything better from a Yankee.' Her husband pulled her by the sleeve to induce her to stop talking, when she cried out, 'I will talk, I will. Let me alone.' Two other ladies called to make a similar request, and upon being refused, the scene was almost indescribable. The General told them they were beautiful, but if they did not stop their abuse he would lock them up in comfortable cells, upon which they retired, somewhat subdued."

A letter from Norfolk in the same paper indicates the existence of the same feeling [illegible]. We copy:

"The guard at the ferry, tired of seeing so many little secesh flags borne past them raised a large American flag over the entrance to the ferry. The fair secessionists had to walk under the glorious old banner in going to and from the boat, which hurt their susceptible feelings, and they reported the matter to Viele, who sent word to Col. Hopkinson, of the First Delaware, that the flag of our Union should be removed, in deference to the feeling of the rebels. Col. Hopkinson, refused, and threatened to throw up his commission and report the matter at Washington. Viele gave in at this, and Col. Hopkinson has placed a flag over every door in the vicinity of the ferry.— The men threatened to procure a rebel flag and nail it down in the gangway leading to the ferry slip, thus compelling the rebel women to walk over the emblem of treason and under that of loyalty."

A CAT STORY.—A philosophical old fellow was one day passing a new schoolhouse, erected somewhere towards the setting sun borders of the Union, when his attention was suddenly turned to a crowd of persons gathering round the door. He inquired of a boy whom he met what was going on.

"Well, nothing 'cept the skule committee."

"A committee meets to-day! what for?"

"Well, continued the boy, you see Bill, that's our biggest boy, got mad at the teacher and he went all around and gathered up dead cats. Nothing but cats, and cats, and cats. O, it was orful—them cats!"

"Pshaw! what have the cats to do with the committee?"

"Well, you will see. Bill kept on bringing cats, and cats, allers a pilin' 'em up yonder," pointing to a huge pile as large in extent as a pyramid, and considerably aromantic, "and he piled them. Nothing but cats, cats!"

"Never mind, my son, what Bill did; what has the committee met for?"

"Then Bill got sick haulin' 'em, and everybody got nosin' 'em, but Bill got madder, and didn't give it up, but kept a pilin' up cats, and—"

"Can't you tell me what the committee are holding a meeting for?"

"Why, the skule committee are goin' to to hold a meetin' to see whether they'll move the skule house or them cats."

SINGULAR FACT.—The Stockton Argus relates the following:

It is a singular fact mosquitos are afflicted with those minute ticks that are so annoying, and that have actually been the cause of death of children, by the sores they create. We were shown several of these annoying ticks, a few moments after a mosquito had been killed upon the hand, as they were noticed to leave the body of the crushed insect. The mosquito had been lucky in his foraging, and the ticks became filled with the blood they had robbed from the sanguinary robber, which gave them a red color, otherwise but few eyes could have distinguished them, so very minute are they in size. It required an extraordinary good eye to notice them, and when pointed out to us a careful examination was necessary on our part to distinguish them, and even then would have escaped our sight had they not moved.— It is some consolation to know that such treatment as mosquitos extend unto others is even so extended unto them.

LOCOMOTIVE ELOQUENCE.—Elihu Burrit says: I love to see one of these creatures, with sinews of brass, and muscles of iron, strut forth from smoky stable, and saluting the train of cars with a dozen sonorous snorts from his iron nostrils fall back gently into his harness. There he stands champing and foaming upon the iron track. His great heart is a furnace of glowing coals, his lymphatic blood is boiling in his veins, the strength of a thousand horses is nerving his sinews—he pants to be gone.— He could "snake" St. Peters across the desert of Sahara if he could be fairly hitched to it; but there is a little sober-eyed man in the saddle who holds him with one finger, and could take away his breath in a moment should he grow restive or vicious. I am deeply interested in this man, for, begrimmed as he may be with coal, diluted in oil and steam, I regard him as the Genius of the whole machinery, as the physical mind of that huge steam horse.

AN ANECDOTE OF THE PRESIDENT.—The following new version of an old joke about Mr Lincoln we find in the Washington letter of the N. Y. Journal of Commerce:

Never was a chief magistrate more perplexed than Mr Lincoln, and never has there been one more misrepresented, for his goodness of heart prompts him to assume the responsibilities of others, and to indirectly sanction by his silence opinions ascribed to him without any foundation in truth. A few evenings since, he remarked to a visitor that a lot of terrapin had been sent to him as a present from Norfolk, "but," said he, "they looked so uncomfortable that I had them taken down to the river and turned loose." "You don't relish good eating, then, Mr President?" "Yes I do," replied honest Old Abe, "when I have time to enjoy it, and nothing to bother me, but now a days I just have to browse round where I can get a chance."

A QUEEN OF A QUARTER OF A CENTURY.— Friday (June 20) completed the twenty-fifth year of the reign of Victoria, Queen of Great Britain. She is now in the prime of life, being crowned at the early age of eighteen, and has already reigned longer than most of her predecessors but ten of whom wore the crown a quarter of a century, the longest being that of George III, who was King sixty years.

FRIDAY MORNING, AUGUST 8, 1862

Seizure of the Custom House at Port Townsend.

From a gentleman just from Olympia we have learned the following particulars relative to the extraordinary proceedings of Victor Smith, who claims to be the Collector of Customs for Puget Sound District which occurred at Port Townsend on the first of the present month It will be recollected that this Victor Smith is the person who has been so severely condemned by the people and press of that section, in consequence of his attempting the removal of the Custom House from Port Townsend to Cherburg and which we believe he has effected in having it removed to Port Angelos, which we suppose is the same place It is further alleged that this Smith has never given the required bonds to the Government, and really has had no authority to transact the important financial affairs of that branch of the revenue service, and that he is already a defaulter to the Government for a large amount of money, which he has collected from customs, but has not paid over to the Government.

Smith suddenly left Port Townsend several months ago, leaving the Custom House in charge of Lieut. Merriman, of the revenue service, and went to Washington City where he succeeded in inducing Congress to remove the Custom House, as above stated The Washington Standard in speaking of this matter, says:

"We hope the report may yet prove untrue, as no sound reasons have been advanced for a change, while on the other hand, citizens have been induced to invest their capital at Port Townsend in anticipation of the benefits to be derived from the selection by Congress of that point as the port of entry of this district. This was done with the firm expectation that the latter place would remain permanently the location of that branch of the revenue service, and it cannot but be considered an injustice to the citizens of that place for Congress to re-locate it at another point for the mere purpose set forth by the Times correspondent of enabling the Government to speculate in the sale of town lots For the credit of the Government, we hope it may not prove true that it has formed a co partnership with Mr. Collector Victor Smith, 'or any other man,' to embark in Barnum like speculations."

A notice of the return of Victor Smith with a million of dollars of Government funds for the various Federal officers of the Territory, was published by us a few days ago, taken from the San Francisco Bulletin, and we learn that a copy of this notice was neatly enveloped and directed by Smith to each of the above mentioned officers with the compliments of said Mr. Victor Smith, Esq., Collector of Customs and Special Agent of the Government of the United States, &c &c

Smith returned to Puget Sound on Friday August 1st, on board the U S steamer Shubrick, which is in the Revenue service on the Sound, and called upon Lieut Merriman, who was in charge of the Custom House during Smith's absence to Washington, and demanded the keys, which Lieut. M declined giving up to him without he first showed an order from the Department, or his commission—neither of which he produced. Upon receiving a refusal to surrender, Smith returned to the steamer and a council of war was probably called, as the officers and men of the steamer appear upon her decks fully armed and equipped for hostile purposes The steamer came into the harbor with her large guns (32's) double shotted, orders were immediately given to draw the shot and load with shell, which was done and the guns brought to bear upon the town A few minutes after, two officers, with a file of marines came on shore, fully armed and proceeded to the Custom House, at the head of Fowler & Co's wharf, again demanded the surrender of the Custom House, which Lieut M again refused. They returned to the Steamer when the commander, Lieut Wilson, took charge of the marines, and again formally demanded a surrender. Lieut. Merriman, upon his demand, gave him possession of the office to save the town from bombardment and bloodshed The papers and money were immediately moved to the Steamer Shubrick and at last accounts the business of the Custom House was transacted on board the Steamer Shubrick We also learn that Smith accompanied Lieut Wilson on shore and for fear of personal violence, secured the company of two ladies one on each side, as a guard to his precious person

The reason assigned by Lieut Merriman in justification of his refusal to comply with Smith's demands are, that he believes Smith is defaulter for a large amount, as no vouchers could be found in the office showing what deposits had been made of the moneys collected from the service and that Smith had not filed a bond whereby he could receive a commission, or rather had not up to the time of Lieut Merriman's taking charge of the office, neither had he been notified of Smith's filing any bond after he left Upon discovering this, Lieut. M felt it his duty, under oath on receiving his commission as a Lieutenant of the Revenue service to withhold possession, as he was sworn to protect the Revenue and [illegible] knowledge.

THE WASHINGTON STATESMAN,
A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER,
Published at Walla Walla, W. T.,
[illegible]
Terms Invariably in Advance.
[illegible] $5 00

THE STATESMAN has reliable correspondents in all the mining regions of Oregon and Washington Territory—Powder River, Salmon River, Oro Fino, Colville and the Bitter Root and Deer Lodge Valleys and its facilities for obtaining news from these localities, both through its correspondents and the expresses running from Walla Walla to these points are superior to those of any other paper published in Oregon or Washington Territory.

The paper is the same size as the Weekly Oregonian, and its large circulation in all the mining regions above mentioned renders it to merchants and others, an excellent advertising medium aug5 4mdw

THE DAILY OREGONIAN [illegible]

The [illegible] the Advertiser has [illegible] his misery and frankly [illegible] form condition. [illegible] to his friends to [illegible] perish. Help [illegible] would pity the poor fellow [illegible] in a better cause. But as it is we [illegible] saying— good enough [illegible] business being [illegible] what you may [illegible]. However [illegible] for the soul [illegible] will confess and renounce your political sins with equal candor you will [illegible] shaming the devil! and partially reclaim your hopeless condition. Otherwise [illegible] society—lost.

SKEDADDLED.—Fred Wicks, alias Doctor Wicks! alias Hospital Steward [illegible] parted for parts unknown on board the steamship Sierra Nevada Wednesday evening last having first procured a couple of genteel suits of clothes under false pretenses, from unsuspecting gentlemen in this city. This individual is well known on Puget Sound, probably better known than is good for his wholesome.

LUSCIOUS.—We acknowledge the present of a small box of peach plums of extraordinary size and superior flavor from Messrs. [illegible] & Walling of the Willamette Nursery near Oregon City. These plums are the largest we have ever seen from any locality and are pleasing to the sight and agreeable to the taste. They resemble the Red [illegible] apple, being equally as large, with a beautiful red bloom and plump appearance.

STILL COMES.—The Hunt brought down about 75 passengers and about 600 pounds of gold dust,—150 pounds per Wells Fargo & Co. and an equal amount in hands of passengers. About $12,000 in coin was also brought down by Wells, Fargo & Co's Express. No particular news from the mines.

RECOVERED.—We are requested to state and do so with pleasure, that Mr. C. A. B. Patterson has entirely recovered from his attack of insanity which caused his being placed in charge of Doctors Hawthorne & Loryea at the Insane Assylum, some three weeks ago. We hope his recovery may prove permanent.

UNITED STATES TREASURY NOTES.—In regard to the circulation of these notes we adopt the remarks of a cotemporary: "Every loyal man in the land should at this time join in an effort to sustain the credit of the Government by receiving cheerfully the U. S. notes as the currency of the land. It is and will be the best. Let business men at once advertise to receive it in all their business operations and this will give it currency. Such a measure would not only be right and just, but it would be the only way a patriotic citizen could act. It is sheer hypocrisy to shout hurrah for the Union and then decry the very means and credit of the Government that is battling to uphold that Union. Let all good loyal citizens at once make known their intention to take the Treasury Notes, and those who refuse them will soon be known."

HOW WILL THE PACIFIC RAILROAD BE BUILT?—The New York Evening Post thus answers:

When the present war terminates we shall have not merely an army of soldiers seeking new employment, but men inured to fatigue, familiar with entrenching tools, the pickaxe and the shovel, and who, accustomed to new scenes and novel adventures, will gladly furnish much of the labor necessary for the work. We can imagine 100,000 or 200,000 of these hardy men spread along the route, attacking the sections simultaneously, and finishing the whole within the same time that any single section could be completed. We can imagine them finally settling down in cantonments or villages all along the line across the plains or in the valleys where the gold and silver crop out, at once benefitting their own fortunes and adequately protecting the road itself. Yet this result would be an inconsiderable part of the benefits to be achieved.

LADD, WEBSTER & CO.'S
FAMILY
SEWING MACHINES
ARE UNEQUALLED BY ANY FOR BEAUTY AND SIMPLICITY OF CONSTRUCTION
—AND—
Efficiency in Working.

A GOOD SEWING MACHINE

SHOULD BE WELL MADE simple in its construction and easily kept in order, should make a seam [illegible] alike on both sides of the material and should sew any and all materials that can be sewed.

It should be able to use cotton thread or silk directly from the spool, and to sew from coarse to fine [illegible] with rapidity and without changing the tension. It should also be able to make the [illegible] greater or less, in both the under and upper threads and with uniformity; and should have a straight needle, curved ones being liable to break.

The needle should have perpendicular motion—this is absolutely necessary for heavy work.

It should be able to bind with a binder, hem with a hemmer, should stitch, fell, run and gather, and should be always ready to work.

It should be capable of using the same size thread on both sides of the work and of using different colored thread or silk, above and below to correspond with any two colors of cloth to be united.

It should be able to make a long or short stitch and to fasten off the seam and commence sewing tightly at the first stitch and to run easily, and make but little noise.

It should have a wheel feed; no others are in constant contact with the work.

It should not be liable to get out of order; neither should it require a screw driver or wrench to set the needle.

It should not be liable to oil the operator's dress.

It should not form a ridge on the under side [illegible]

DR. BAKER'S
PAIN PANACEA.

Is composed entirely of healing gums and vegetable oil and herbs. It is perfectly safe for the most delicate to use. I can most sincerely say that I have never known any, however delicate, to be injured by it in the least. I will continue to ask the afflicted, who have not used it, to try it for the following diseases: If they are not satisfied with its healing properties the money will be cheerfully refunded by the agent where the medicine is for sale.

If you have pain in the stomach or bowels, try a dose of Pain Panacea internally, bathe externally over the parts affected and you will at once restore the proper action and relieve the pain.

If you have a Bruise or Wound, bathe it well with the Pain Panacea four times a day. It will relieve the pain, and take out all the poison, and heal the wound in a short time.

If you are suffering from Neuralgia or Rheumatic Pains, apply the Pain Panacea freely, and take a dose of it internally morning, noon and night; it will not only cure the pain but will remove the cause of the disease.

If you have the Dyspepsia, and your food distresses your stomach after eating, take a dose of Pain Panacea after each meal.

If you have a Cankered or Sore Mouth or Throat, apply the Pain Panacea, to the affected parts, and gargle the mouth or throat three or four times a day.

If you have the Diarrhoea, or a relaxed state of the bowels take a dose of Pain Panacea, and they will soon be restored. If you have a painful swelling, bathe the parts freely and you will soon relieve pain, and the swelling will be reduced.

If you have a severe tooth-ache, apply the Pain Panacea on a piece of cotton and bathe gum at the same time; it will stop the pain instantly.

If you have a pain in the Breast, Side, Back or Kidneys, bathe parts affected morning and night, at the same time take a dose of the Panacea internally.

If a Mother has a caked breast apply the Panacea as hot as it can be borne.

If you feel chilly or cold, as though you were going to have a fever take a dose of Panacea.

If you have a wound, cut or galls upon your horse, apply the Pain Panacea. It will take out all the inflammation and heal the sore in a short time.

Thorough Cultivation.

Every one, no doubt, has read about the old farmer, and admired his cunning and wisdom who, upon his death bed, called his thriftless sons and told them that there was a treasure buried in the fields within a foot of the surface the precise spot of which he could not tell, and which if they wished to secure they must search for

The boys were exceedingly rejoiced, and after the old man had respectably yielded up the ghost and been carried to his burial, they sallied forth with their spades in search of the hidden treasure. They were determined to make sure of it They began at one side of the field and spaded deep and thoroughly Day after day they toiled and yet no treasure appeared, until at length the whole field had been spaded They had hoped to find a treasure after some unusual sort—but they were disappointed They almost reproached the old man in his grave, and yet when they remembered his honesty and love for them those reproaches died away. At length the truth flashed upon their minds. They procured goodly seed, scattered it forth with a liberal hand the rains fell and the sun shone, the young grain in due time appeared, matured, and was harvested, and their barns were laden with the wealthy spoil.

It was thus that they found the hidden wealth And while they felt that enjoyment which always accompanies a competence, they also felt a deep sense of gratitude to their kind old father who had thus taught them the best way to secure the treasures of earth

It would be well for Oregon if there were more such old men, and if her sons were taught such wholesome lessons With a most productive soil, and with the markets of the world at our command, we have but to cultivate thoroughly, and our farms will prove richer and more lasting claims for digging gold than any other that have yet been discovered.

"Plow deep while sluggards sleep,
And you'll have corn to sell and keep"

Feed your Lands.

No more foolish policy was ever pursued, than that which is so universally followed, of constantly taking from the soil the valuable products of the field and then withholding from it the aliment necessary for the sustenance and growth of those products. The plan of reaping harvest after harvest from your fields without giving in return to the soil the food it needs and claims, not only tends to the impoverishment of the field, but [illegible] the owner. The earth is liberal with her gifts, if she be only treated well. Let the farmer first study her wants, let him ascertain the food she desires and give it to her with an unsparing hand, and she will in turn pour into his granaries her golden harvest until they are filled with great measure, "pressed down, shaken together, and running over." But if he is niggardly with nature she in turn will be niggardly with him. Let him withhold her needed sustenance, and she will withhold from him her plentiful harvests. If he suffers her impoverishment, she will cause his. A man might as well expect to gather grapes from thorns or figs from thistles as to expect to gather golden harvests from impoverished lands.

That advice which the old Scotchman gave to his son on his death-bed, is well worthy the attention of all. The old man calling his son to his bed-side, gave him his last solemn injunction, "Jamie," said he, "never, never, NEVER run in debt, but if you do run in debt, Jamie, let it be for manure." We are not informed whether "Jamie" kept the advice of the old man or not, but we are assured both by our reason and our experience that if he did his granaries were well filled, his ricks were ample, his kine were well fattened, his cellar was well stored, his pockets well filled, and that he like his good old father at last went down to the grave "like a shock of corn fully ripe in its season."—Oregon Farmer

Straw as a Manure.

It has been demonstrated by repeated experiments, that for a crop of corn especially, straw is the best of manure, if only applied properly Instead of burning up the straw it should be fed out or scattered about under the sheds where your stock is kept, and thus it will become mixed with, and saturated by, the manure. In the spring this straw should be drawn out and spread over the field intended for corn. Then the whole ground should be plowed deep so that the straw should be well turned under It would then be better to put a roller instead of a drag on the field, which will press down the soil in good condition for marking out the field for your crops.

In cultivating the soil there is a nitre created which the straw absorbs, converting it into a rich mold, which aids the corn in withstanding drouth Then when the ground is again plowed and a crop of wheat, oats or barley is sown this mold is thrown to the surface, and aids this crop also. It would also be a most advantageous time to sow your clover or timothy seed at the same time — By rotating your crops each of your fields might receive the benefits in turn of this straw manure, and we are assured that it would greatly increase your crops of corn as well as succeeding crops of grain and grass.—Oregon Farmer

Gooseberries Subject to Mildew.

Ed. Farmer.—I see your notice of proposed manner of cultivating gooseberries to prevent them from being affected by mildew.

I have had some experience in the cultivation of gooseberries. In early times, in Illinois, a variety of the English Gooseberry was introduced there, the fruit of which in nine cases out of ten was rendered worthless by mildew The belief became current that gooseberries could not be cultivated with success in that State; and I remember that Professor Turner, of Illinois, in a communication published in an agricultural paper, stated that the cultivation of gooseberries must be considered a failure in Illinois

It was not so, however, Some nine varieties of English gooseberries—the plants having been grown in Bristol, England, had been imported into Illinois [illegible] had produced large quantities of fruit without being affected by mildew—proving most incontestably that the worthy professor had been mistaken

Gooseberries are now produced of great excellence in Illinois—the old worthless varieties having been discarded.

I have seen most beautiful, large, fine gooseberries on sale in Portland—and I am satisfied if a little pains are taken, that varieties can be had which will not be subject to mildew.

Gooseberries should be severely pruned, to remove the surplus wood and to open the plants to the air—and the ground about the plants should be kept rich —F in Oregon Farmer
